Plateau Perspectives

Plateau Perspectives has been working in the source area of the Yangtze River on the Tibetan Plateau since 1998. During this time we have built up long-term partnerships with local Tibetan communities and the government.

Plateau Perspectives:

- Integrates conservation and sustainable development
- Seeks sustainability in all fields of work
- Aims to develop successful, replicable models of community development

It aims to protect the source areas of the Yangtze River, Yellow River and Mekong River; to promote sustainable livelihoods in fragile grassland environments; and to enhance the provision of social services for Tibetan pastoralists.

Current programmes include doctor and midwifery training, the setting up and equipping of health centres, children's immunisations, the establishment of local schools, teacher training and environmental conservation in the nature reserve.

Village Schools

Plateau Perspectives has been involved in the establishment of local village schools making education accessible for nomad children. They are run by the local communities. Boys and girls are now able to go to school for the first time.

School Yak Herds

The schools need their own herds of yak and sheep to provide food for children and teachers and an income (from the sale of young animals) for school maintenance.

In order to be sustainable in the long-term, the local schools must increase the size of their herds. Recent tax system changes mean they now need to be self-sufficient.

Plateau Perspectives will provide yak and sheep to increase the herds to a sustainable size. Animals will be bought locally and given to the schools to add to their existing herds. This will ensure the schools' long-term sustainability and enable nomad children to receive an education.

Give yak (or sheep) – the alternative gift

Giving an animal to a school will transform the lives of nomad children for many years by enabling them to gain an education. Once bought, the animal will provide years of education.

You can give either a whole animal or part of an animal:

A Female Yak £180 $360

Quarter share of a Female Yak £45 $90

One Sheep £40 $80

Half share of a Sheep £20 $40

For each gift you will receive a gift card together with details of your gift to keep or send to the recipient of your gift.

The cost of your gift includes the costs of getting the animals to the schools.

Both yak and sheep are needed by the schools. In the event that the proportions given are inappropriate, Plateau Perspectives may use your gift for the most appropriate animals to enable the schools to build sustainable herds.
